
There is No “Publish” Button

Greg Albers, Joseph Mohan,
Kirsten Southwell, Kris Thayer

National Museum Publishing Seminar 2016

There is No “Publish” Button

#NMPS16

There is No “Publish” Button

#NMPS16

2 years ago...

#NMPS14: Digital Publishing 101

There is No "Publish" Button

#NMPS16

New formats

bit.ly/digpub101

| | | Distribution | | Features | | | | | | Production Considerations | | | | | |
|---------------------|---------------|--|---|----------------|---------------|------------------------------|-------------|---------------------------------|---------------------------|----------------------------|---------------------|-----------|---|---|---|
| | | Vendor | Devices | Adaptable Text | Video / Audio | Animation / Dynamic Graphics | Geolocation | Reader Feedback / Participation | Scripting / Interactivity | Technical Skills Necessary | Production Timeline | Cost | Pros | Cons | Speakers |
| Web Book | HTML5/CSS/JS | Self | Any device with a modern browser | Yes | Yes | Yes | Limited | Yes | Yes | High | 1 year | $5-50K | Lots of flexibility; open formats; as universal as a website | No sales venues; difference between website and publication not clearly defined | Greg Albers, Digital Publications Manager, Getty Publications (galbers@getty.edu / @gregalbers) |
| App | Apple iOS | Apple (App Store) | iPad/iPhone | Yes | Yes | Yes | Yes | Yes | Yes | Extreme | 1 year | $10-100K | Beautiful product, highly interactive, proven sales channels | High cost of production; a book's place in the app ecosystem isn't clear | Edyta Lewicka, Designer, Poton (edyta@potiondesign.com) |
| | Android APK | Google | Android smartphones and tablets; many color e-readers | Yes | Yes | Yes | Yes | Yes | Yes | Extreme | 1 year | $10-100K | | | |
| Hybrid E-Book/App | Adobe DPS | Apple (App Store or Newsstand); Google | iPad and Android tablets | Yes | Yes | Yes | Yes | Limited | Limited | Moderate | 6-12 months | $2-5K | Interactive app-like experience; works within existing workflows; moderate cost | Only optimized for reading and distribution on particular devices (walled garden) | |
| | iBooks Author | Apple (iBookstore) | iPad | Limited | Yes | Yes | Unknown | Yes | Limited | Low | 3-6 months | $0-5K | | | |
| Fixed Format E-Book | FXL | Apple, Amazon, B&N and Kobo (each offers its own FXL option) | Color e-readers; iPad and Android tablets | No | Limited | Yes | Yes | Limited | Limited | Moderate | 3-6 months | $0-2K | Brings print layout design to e-reading devices; low production cost | Not optimized for reading on devices; limited in interactivity | Tina Henderson, Digital Publishing Consultant and Production Artist (tina@tpub.net / @tinahender) |
| | PDF | Self, Scribd, Library vendors (eBrary, OverDrive, etc...) | Nearly any device | No | Limited | No | No | Limited | No | None | 1-3 months | $0-500 | | | |
| Reflowable E-Book | EPUB | Apple (iBookstore), B&N, Google, Kobo, Ingram, and other vendors | Color and b&w e-readers | Yes | Limited | No | Yes | No | Limited | Low | 1-3 months | $0-2K | Wide distribution with proven sales channels; low production cost | Only modest design control; limited in interactivity | Elisa Leshowitz, Director of Publishing Services, ARTBOOK / D.A.P. (elleshowitz@dapinc.com) |
| | MOBI | Amazon | Kindles | Yes | Limited | No | No | No | Limited | Low | 1-3 months | $0-2K | | | |

There is No “Publish” Button

#NMPS16

-
- ✓ New formats
 - ❑ New approaches to content
 - ❑ New tools & skills
 - ❑ New ways of thinking

Greg Albers → @geealbers

Digital Publications Manager, Getty Publications

Joseph Mohan → @cleanroom

Director of Production, Art Institute of Chicago

Kirsten Southwell → @kmsouthwell

Design Strategy Consultant

Kris Thayer → @krsthayer11

Senior Designer, Minneapolis Institute of Art

bit.ly/digpub101-b

New approaches to content tools & skills ways of thinking

New approaches to content

We should be ...

- exploring the difference between narrative experiences and functional tools
- asking ourselves what is the best way to tell the story, not just fit the platform
- thinking long-term from the very beginning
- seeing what a computer sees, and taking advantage

We should be ...

exploring the difference between narrative experiences and functional tools

@kmsouthwell

Function

Efficient

Direct

Clicks

Thinking

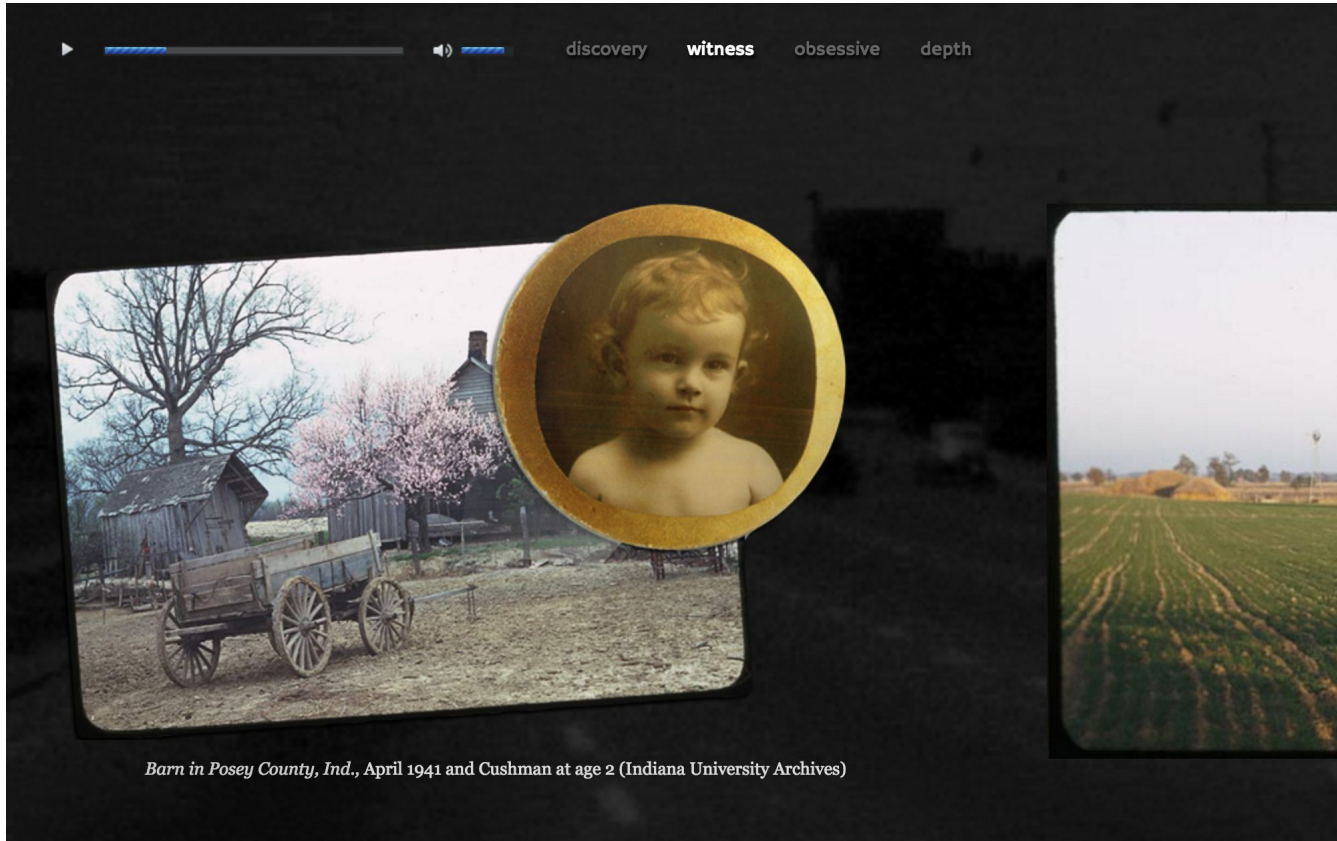

Narrative

Engaging

Immersive

Minutes

Feeling

Narrative

Lost and Found: Charles
Cushman Photographs
Created by NPR

approaches to content: narrative and function

@kmsouthwell

Gallery 9

Narrative

Ai Weiwei 360 for the Royal Academy of Art

approaches to content: narrative and function

@kmsouthwell

GALLERY:
Quacks and Charlatans

Narrative

The Collectors for the Welcome Collection

The Museum, and its educational focus, initially found favour with publications like the Lancet and Medical Times. However, the establishment turned against Kahn when he started selling quack remedies. The Lancet then labelled the Museum 'a den of obscenity... determinedly arranged for the purposes of depraving the minds of the ignorant and unwary'.

We should be ...

asking ourselves what is the best way to tell the story, not just fit the platform

@kristhayer11

Tools: beyond words & pictures, but always in service of the story!

- We want to create beautiful, engaging, authoritative publications
- We want to reach as wide an audience as possible

Great news

- We have great content
- We have new skills & new tools
- Content creators are born collaborators

What is the best way to tell our stories?

What is content/functionality is needed to impart accurate & complete information?

What additional content/functionality could to be added to surprise/delight reader, introduce some drama/emotion, and enhance understanding?

What is the best way to tell the story? Touch?

approaches to content: tell the story

@kristhayer11

What is the best way to tell the story? Show?

Is this a story about conservation,
i.e. bug damage?

Or, is this a story about vandalism,
i.e. revenge?

What is the best way to tell the story? Movement? Audio?

Object of great beauty but also a marvel of engineering. How best to describe? Traditional tools of words & pictures, but also consider touch, sound, movement, and story.

Who used the ink well? Develop character & story:

Sense of surprise and discovery

Leads of a better understanding of the object and its place in history.

Creative & judicious use of tools reveals, delights, teaches, and focuses approaches to content: tell the story

@kristhayer11

We should be ...

thinking long-term from the very beginning

@cleanroom

PERMANENCE

*FIGHT FOR
THE FUTURE!*

approaches to content: what will last?

@cleanroom

Small cautionary tale #1: Fashioning
the Object

approaches to content: what will last?

@cleanroom

Uh oh.

approaches to content: what will last?

@cleanroom

Small cautionary tale #2: photographs

approaches to content: what will last?

@cleanroom

Hmm.

approaches to content: what will last?

@cleanroom

Will my content last?

Does it need perpetual monitoring and upkeep?

Does it rely on a system that could fail or be abandoned?

What can I do?

Does it need to last?

Can I preserve it?

Can I build it to last?

...but what are the downsides?

We should be ...

seeing what a computer sees, and taking advantage

@geealbers

getty.edu/publications/terracottas

getty.edu/publications/romanmosaics approaches to content: what a computer sees

@geealbers

ca. 3rd century B.C.

VS.

start: -300

end: -200

BARTOLOMEO CAVACEPPI

Rome 1716/17–1799

Bust of Emperor Caracalla

c. 1750–70

Marble

H: 71.1 cm (28 in.)

W: 54.6 cm (21 ½ in.)

D: 33 cm (13 in.)

94.SA.46

MARKS AND INSCRIPTIONS

Signed on the front, proper right side, at the bottom edge of the cuirass, BARTOLOMEOVS/CAVACEPPI/FECHT.

TECHNICAL DESCRIPTION

The bust is carved from a single piece of white marble with very minor inclusions. The socle is carved separately of a similar white marble.

There are a few minor chips in the drapery and hair; otherwise, the bust is in excellent overall condition. X rays reveal that the bust and socle are held together by a hand-forged dowel approximately five inches long.

PROVENANCE

Private collection, New York (sold, Sotheby's, New York, 6 June 1994, lot 112); Daniel Katz, Ltd., London, sold to the J. Paul Getty Museum, 1994.

EXHIBITIONS

Art in Rome in the Eighteenth Century, Philadelphia Museum of Art, 16 March–28 May 2000, Museum of Fine Arts, Houston, 25 June–17 September 2000.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Sotheby's Art at Auction: The Art Market Review, 1993–94 (London, 1994), 194; "Acquisitions! 1994," J. Paul Getty Museum Journal 23 (1995): 121, no. 100; sale catalogue, Sotheby's, London, 7 December 1995, under lot 96; J. Bassett and P. Fogelman, Looking at European Sculpture: A Guide to Technical Terms (Los Angeles and London, 1997), 25; P. Fusco, Summary Catalogue of European Sculpture in the J. Paul Getty Museum (Los Angeles, 1997), 15; P. Fogelman, in Art in Rome in the Eighteenth Century, exh. cat., ed. E. Peters Bowron and J. J. Rishel (Philadelphia: Philadelphia Museum of Art; Houston: Museum of Fine Arts, 2000), 241, no. 119.

BARTOLOMEO CAVACEPPI'S signed Bust of Emperor Caracalla is a copy of an ancient portrait of Marcus Aurelius Antoninus (A.D. 188–217), nicknamed Caracalla, who ruled the Roman empire from A.D. 211 until his assassination. Busts of Caracalla were popular in the eighteenth century, especially among English collectors.¹ The Getty marble is only one of many contemporaneous copies after the antique, for example, those executed for Woburn Abbey, Finchcox, Kent, and Ince Blundell Hall.² These copies all derive from the same or similar prototypes. Characteristic of these portraits, in which Caracalla dons the cuirass and toga of a Roman soldier, are the simple, compact volumes; strong turn of the

which is exceptional within Cavaceppi's oeuvre. Other versions of Caracalla's portrait by Cavaceppi include a marble bust, possibly identifiable as the Getty bust, in the sculptor's possession when he died;³ a reduced model after the antique, identified by Carlo Gasparri as one of the "Dodici Cesari in bustini" listed in Cavaceppi's studio and now in a private collection;⁴ and a restored antique bust made for Charles Townley, now in the British Museum, London.⁵ In this last example the head, purportedly excavated in Rome in 1776, is much more frontal than that in the Getty example, and the modern chest differs in its drapery and truncation.

Catalogue #38:

Bartolomeo Cavaceppi (Rome 1716/17–1799)

Bust of Emperor Caracalla

c. 1750–70

Marble

71.1 cm (28 in.) x 54.6 cm (21 1/2 in.) x 33 cm (13 in.)

94.SA.46

Marks And Inscriptions:

Signed on the front, proper right side, at the bottom edge of the cuirass, BARTOLOMEVS / CAVACEPPI / FECIT.

Technical Description:

The bust is carved from a single piece of white marble with very minor inclusions. The socle is carved separately of a similar white marble. There are a few minor chips in the drapery and hair; otherwise, the bust is in excellent overall condition. X rays reveal that the bust and socle are held together by a hand-forged dowel approximately five inches long.

Provenance:

Private collection, New York (sold, Sotheby's, New York, 6 June 1994, lot 112);
Daniel Katz, Ltd., London, sold to the J. Paul Getty Museum, 1994.

Exhibitions:

approaches to content: what a computer sees

@geealbers

The image shows a dual-pane application window. The left pane displays a document titled 'cat_38.docx' with a rich text editor interface. The right pane displays a file named 'cat_38.md' with a code editor interface showing the document's metadata in a structured format.

Catalogue #38:

Bartolomeo Cavaceppi (Rome 1716/17–1799)
Bust of Emperor Caracalla
c. 1750–70
Marble
71.1 cm (28 in.) x 54.6 cm (21 1/2 in.) x 33 cm (13 in.)
94.SA.46

Marks And Inscriptions:

Signed on the front, proper right side, at the bottom edge of the cuirass, BARTOLOMEVS / CAVACEPPI / FECIT.

Technical Description:

The bust is carved from a single piece of white marble with very minor inclusions. The socle is carved separately of a similar white marble. There are a few minor chips in the drapery and hair; otherwise, the bust is in excellent overall condition. X rays reveal that the bust and socle are held together by a hand-forged dowel approximately five inches long.

Provenance:

Private collection, New York (sold, Sotheby's, New York, 6 June 1994, lot 112); Daniel Katz, Ltd., London, sold to the J. Paul Getty Museum, 1994.

Exhibitions:

cat_38.md

```
1
2 inv_no: 94.SA.46
3 cat: 38
4 artist:
5   · name: Bartolomeo Cavaceppi
6   · location: Rome
7   · years: 1716/17–1799
8 title: Bust of Emperor Caracalla
9 dates:
10  · start: 1750
11  · end: 1770
12 material: Marble
13 dimensions:
14   · height: 71.1
15   · width: 54.6
16   · depth: 33
17
18
19 ## Marks And Inscriptions
20
21 Signed on the front, proper right side, at the bottom edge of the cuirass, 22   · bartolomevs / cavaceppi / fecit.
23
24 ## Technical Description*
25
26 The bust is carved from a single piece of white marble with very minor 27   · inclusions. The socle is carved separately of a similar white marble. There 28   · are a few minor chips in the drapery and hair; otherwise, the bust is in 29   · excellent overall condition. X rays reveal that the bust and socle are held 30   · together by a hand-forged dowel approximately five inches long.
```

approaches to content: what a computer sees

@geealbers

approaches to content
New tools & skills
ways of thinking

New tools & skills

We should be ...

- treading mindfully with proprietary platforms and their temptations
- considering open source software but aware of its pitfalls
- remembering non-book platforms and be open to using them
- coding

We should be ...

treading mindfully with proprietary platforms and their temptations

@kristhayer11

Proprietary Platforms: The Temptations

Controlled design

Potential for rich media & interactivity

Powerful, intimate experience

Lure of defined distribution channels

Potential for surprise & discovery

Promise of robust analytics

Proprietary Platforms: The Dangers

Limited audience

Device-dependant delivery

Non-responsive?

At mercy of platform & distribution channel

Can your pub be found?

Multimedia dependent on hardware & software

Movement toward the web?

And worst of all....what happens when you stop paying your license fees?

tools & skills: proprietary platforms

@kristhayer11

App disappears from
App Store

The issues disappear from devices

Left with assets, but no story

CAUTIONARY TALE

Saving original content from extinction:

- London-based developer (Kerntiff): html
- Archive

tools & skills: proprietary platforms

@kristhayer11

Develop your content & assets differently moving forward:

- Consider multi-use from beginning of development (eg. video)
- Build in searchability (CMS)
- Build in repurposing/sharing (formats)
 - Social media
 - Museum's video channel
 - Website
 - In-gallery

tools & skills: proprietary platforms

@kristhayer11

We should be ...

considering open source software
but aware of its pitfalls

@cleanroom

Why open source?

- It's free!
- Why reinvent the wheel?
- It creates possibilities we'd never otherwise have
- Unlimited customization
- Rooted in communities
- Robust adoption = sustainability

So what's the problem?

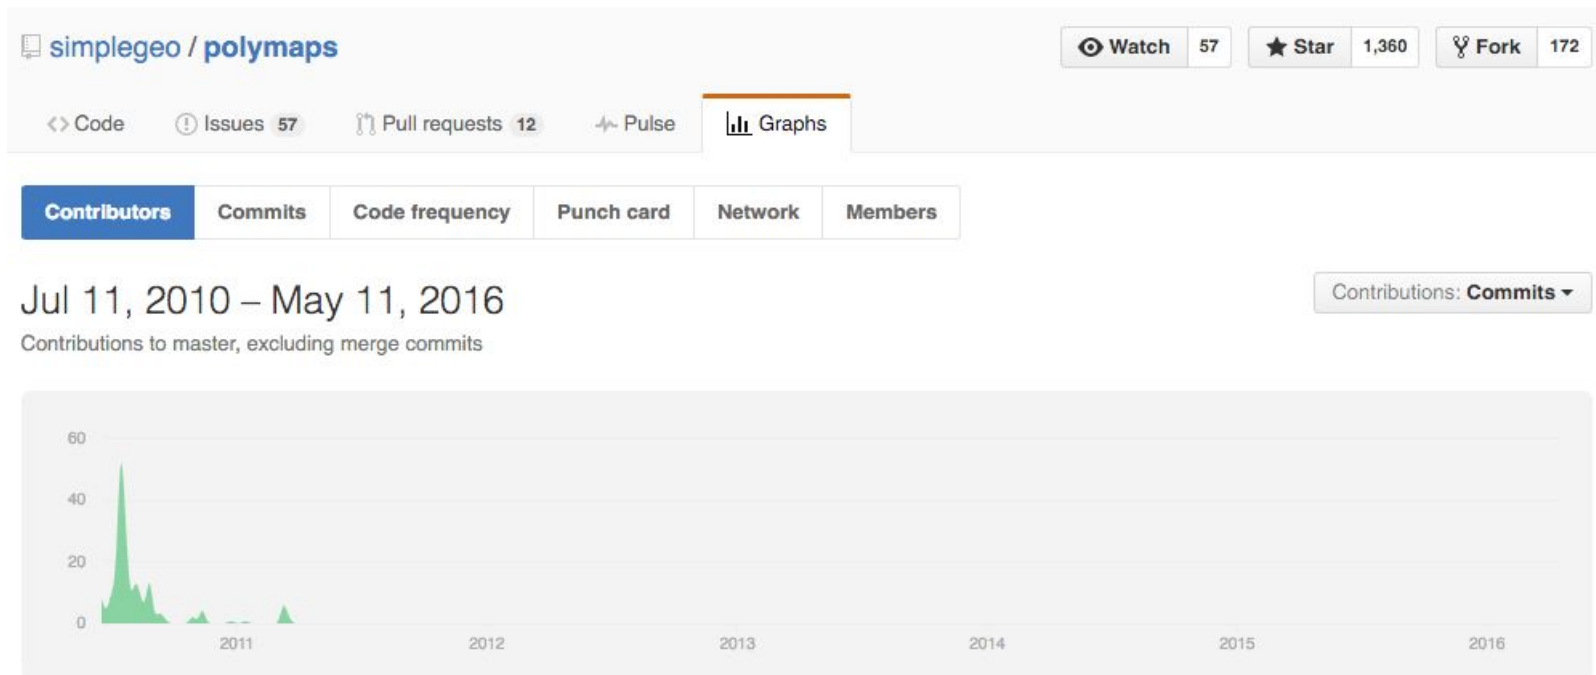

- Oh my, the learning curve
- Time and knowledge are not free
- What if the community moves on?

Zoomable images in the OSCI Toolkit

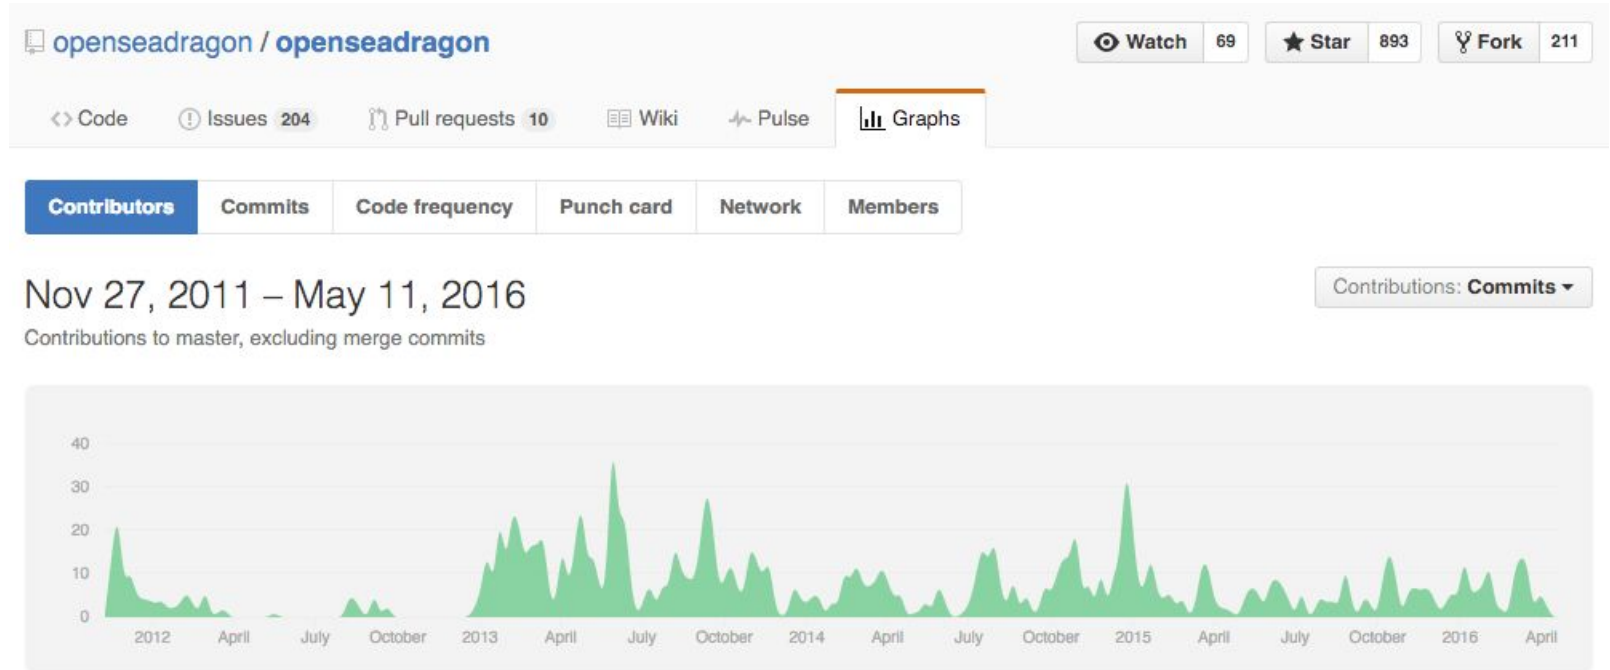

Contributors to Polymaps mapped over time

tools & skills: open source

@cleanroom

Contributors to OpenSeadragon mapped over time

tools & skills: open source

@cleanroom

We should be ...

remembering non-book platforms and be open to using them

@kmsouthwell

Smithsonian

Message Follow Dashboard

Menu

Tumblr
Smithsonian

Inside the Three-Decade
Evolution of "Star Wars" Costumes >

Our traveling exhibition of Star Wars costumes is impressive. Most impressive.

#Star Wars #Star Wars costumes
#mavthe4th #mavthe4thbewithyou #Star Wars

The mummifying of the shrew:
What small-mammal mummies reveal about ancient Egyptian animal life >

tools & skills: non-book platforms

@kmsouthwell

Tumblr

100 Years, 100 Treasures
Beaty Biodiversity Museum

tools & skills: non-book platforms

@kmsouthwell

POSTCARDS FROM A GRAND OPENING

The official opening of the Sydney Opera House ... (1973)
by Max Dupain, State Library of New South Wales
Sydney Opera House

Google Cultural Institute
Postcards from a Grand Opening by the Sydney Opera House

tools & skills: non-book platforms

@kmsouthwell

We should be ...

coding

@geealbers

Why does coding matter?

Code is what books are made up of now

Understanding code, means
we can innovate on what digital books are

-
- ❏ Read and write HTML
 - ❏ Manipulate CSS
 - ❏ Recognize and wonder at JavaScript

approaches to content
tools & skills

New ways of thinking

New ways of thinking

We should be ...

- growing content skills within our teams
- expanding the definition of publishing beyond books and magazines
- looking to our users
- sharing with one another

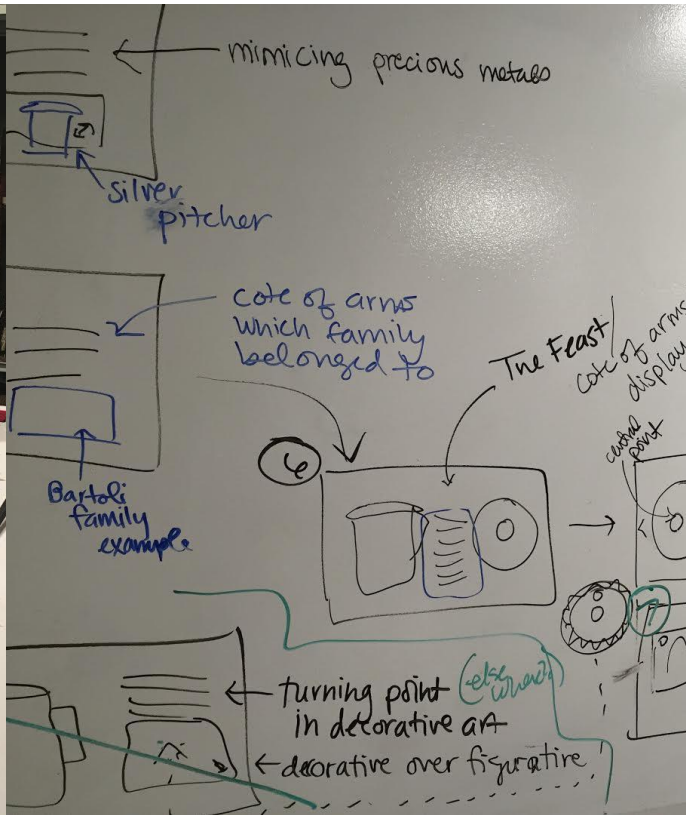

We should be ...

growing content skills within our teams

@kmsouthwell

Content Strategy

Content strategy work session with curators at the Art Institute of Chicago

Art in the Bedchamber of the Tuscan Home

Art in the Bedchamber
of the Tuscan Home

The Adventures of Ulysses by Italian artist Apollonio di Giovanni, depicts the poems of Homer's Odyssey. While it may appear to be an illustrative painting telling this complex story, this piece once served a very functional purpose: as decoration for a chest piece that held the dowry of a bride.

Apollonio di Giovanni, The Adventures of Ulysses, about 1490/95, 1495/1500

Art in the Bedchamber
of the Tuscan Home

Ulysses is a key figure throughout the Odyssey, where he must take an epic journey home from the Trojan War. You can see Ulysses depicted in several places.

Art in the Bedchamber
of the Tuscan Home

Their marriage—and Penelope's faithfulness—is seen as the paragon of marital fidelity.

Art in the Bedchamber
of the Tuscan Home

The narrative of Penelope and Ulysses made it an ideal story to use to decorate a dowry chest.

The dowry chest was provided as a wedding gift, that was commonly and often given from the wife's family. This story was picked for its witty irony as well as its entertainment value for future generations.

Illustration of a dowry chest, from a 15th-century manuscript, showing a chest with a lid decorated with a scene of a man and a woman.

Art in the Bedchamber
of the Tuscan Home

In many ways, the dowry chest represented the business aspects of marriage and family union. Another example of such a gift is the chest which was given to the bride upon their engagement.

Art in the Bedchamber
of the Tuscan Home

Explaining how the family crests were once painted here but faded with time.

Various, Unidentified, Bedchamber of the Tuscan Home, 1490/95, 1495/1500, and 1500/1510

Art in the Bedchamber
of the Tuscan Home

Explain why the chest was looked and perhaps some of the symbolism of the figures surrounding the key hole.

Various, Unidentified, Bedchamber of the Tuscan Home, 1490/95, 1495/1500, and 1500/1510

Art in the Bedchamber
of the Tuscan Home

These wedding artifacts were stored in the bedchamber and considered private family items.

More about what might have been featured in the bedchamber/bedroom that was as family decoration.

Le Dilettante, Unidentified, Bedchamber of the Tuscan Home, 1490/95, 1495/1500, and 1500/1510

ways of thinking: content skills

@kmsouthwell

Storyboards

Content strategy work session with curators at the Art Institute of Chicago

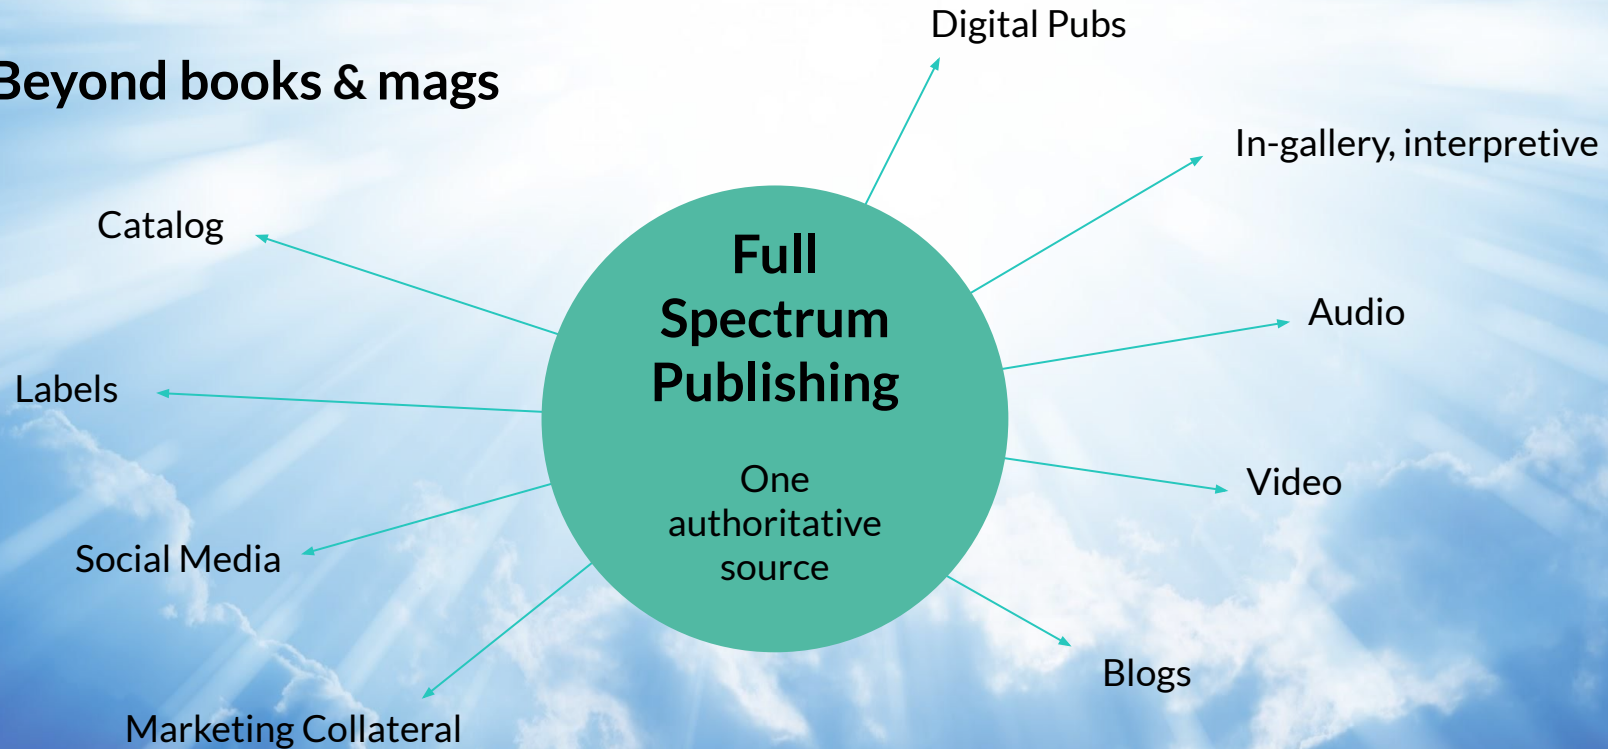

We should be ...

expanding the definition of publishing beyond books and magazines

@kristhayer11

Beyond books & mags

New ways of thinking: expand definition of publishing, credit: Douglas Hegley, Mia

@krsthayer11

Period Room Re-imagined: waaaaaaay beyond books & mags

- Goal is to inspire, intrigue, expand knowledge
- Help visitors understand something new about the people, history, and place
- Develop characters, a narrative?
- Don't underestimate the power of emotions!

Small teams of creatives working collaboratively are powerful creative forces, let them loose!

New ways of thinking: expand definition of publishing

@kristhayer11

We should be ...

looking to our users

@cleanroom

ways of thinking: user feedback

@cleanroom

ways of thinking: user feedback

@cleanroom

ways of thinking: user feedback

@cleanroom

UNDERS 🤔 TANDING

ways of thinking: user feedback

@cleanroom

INTE 🤔 REST

We should be ...

sharing with one another

@geealbers

Today, books are just cover thumbnails on screens

ways of thinking: sharing

@geealbers

THE FIRST EDITION OF THIS BOOK WAS PRINTED BY JOHN SMITH OF
THE WHITE ARROW PRESS IN SEPTEMBER OF 2013. THIS EDITION
IS LIMITED TO 500 COPIES, PLUS 20 NUMBERED AND SIGNED
COPIES WITH A SMALL, VAGUELY AMUSING DRAWING OF A CAT BY THE AUTHOR. THE COVER IS BY NINA ARNESON.
THE TYPEFACES USED IN THIS BOOK ARE ADOBE
GARAMOND DESIGNED BY ROBERT SLIMBACH
BASED UPON THE ORIGINAL DESIGNS OF
CLAUDE GARAMOND AND ITC FRANKLIN
GOTHIC ORIGINALLY DESIGNED BY MORRIS FULLER BENTON.

COLOPHON

Typeset in Octavian, by David Kindersley
by Dr. Donald Knuth's \TeX system.
Printed on Crane's Crest paper with a NeXT Laserprinter
by an '040 NeXT Cube.
Converted to .pdf
by pStill.app.

This repository

Pull requests
Issues
Gist

gettypubs / romanmosaics

Unwatch
2
Star
0 Fork
0

Code
Issues 4
Pull requests 0
Wiki
Pulse
Graphs
Settings

Roman Mosaics in the J. Paul Getty Museum, by Alexis Belis
<http://www.getty.edu/publications/romanmosaics>
— Edit

561 commits
7 branches
0 releases
11 contributors

Branch: master
New pull request
New file
Upload files
Find file
HTTPS
https://github.com/gettypubs
Download ZIP

egardner Add apple home-screen icons
Latest commit 1485fe2 2 days ago

| | |
|----------------|--|
| bin | Modify project scripts |
| data | Add revised epub and mobi, update file sizes |
| environments | Use environment vars to generate PDFs |
| extensions | Add period to end of Chicago-style citation |
| source | Add apple home-screen icons |
| spec | Clarify test description |
| .editorconfig | Add basic editorconfig |
| .gitignore | Update Gitignore |
| .rubocop.yml | Disable EmptyLinesAroundAccessModifier rule |
| .ruby-version | Migrate to Ruby 2.3.1 |
| .scss-lint.yml | Update lint settings and re-write SCSS |
| Gemfile | Add HTML minification |
| LICENSE.md | Tweak readme and add license |
| README.md | Update README.md |

| | | |
|----------------|--|--------------|
| .scss-lint.yml | Update lint settings and re-write SCSS | 3 months ago |
| Gemfile | Add HTML minification | 2 days ago |
| LICENSE.md | Tweak readme and add license | a year ago |
| README.md | Update README.md | a month ago |
| config.rb | Set absolute URL for og:image path | 2 days ago |

README.md

This is the repository for Roman Mosaics in the J. Paul Getty Museum by Alexis Belis, published in March 2016 by the J. Paul Getty Museum. It is available online at <http://www.getty.edu/publications/romanmosaics> and may be downloaded free of charge in multiple formats.

About the Book

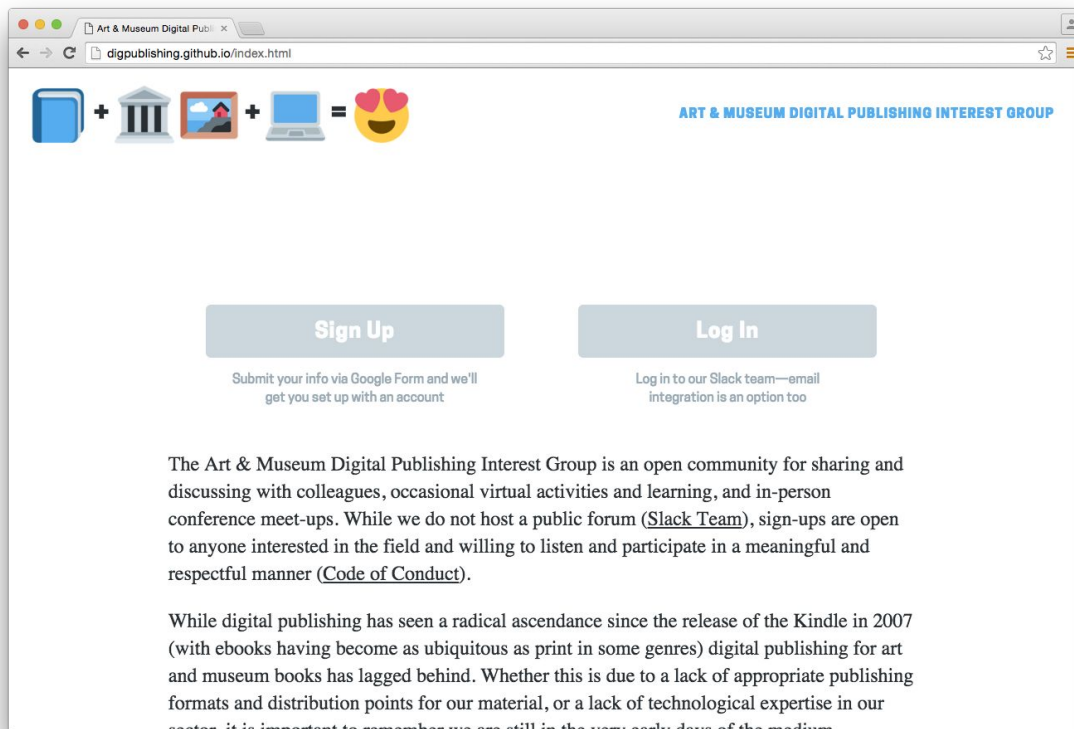

Mosaics decorated domestic and public buildings across the broad expanse of the Roman Empire. Scenes drawn from mythology, daily life, nature, and spectacles in the arena enlivened interior spaces and reflected the cultural ambitions of wealthy patrons. Dating from the second through the sixth centuries AD, the mosaics in the collection of the J. Paul Getty Museum exemplify Roman mosaic production from its center in Italy to major workshops in North Africa, southern Gaul (present-day France), and ancient Syria. In addition to its comprehensive catalogue entries, this publication provides a detailed examination of the contexts in which the mosaics were discovered and excavated. This volume documents all twenty-one mosaics in the J. Paul Getty Museum's collection, presenting their artistry in new color photography.

Using this Repository

ways of thinking: sharing

@geéalbers

http://digpublishing.github.io

ways of thinking: sharing

@geaalbers

Thank you!

bit.ly/digpub101-b

digpublishing.github.io

